Jeffrey Allen Stetson, 45, was arrested late last month and admitted to police he had strangled his wife at their home in Enfield. The body of Joy Stetson was found last October after a neighbor was searching for her dog. The neighbor also found Stetson's car parked at the back of the property, and police had been looking for the couple since then. Get Breaking News Delivered to Your Inbox Prosecutors say Stetson also tried to make it look like a burglary had taken place at the house. He was later ordered held without bail.Q: Are there any ways to avoid the need for energy to operate a house? This seems to me like an obvious question, but I have never seen an answer to it. Obviously, a house needs energy to operate, but what if the energy could be provided by an external source? (e.g., air conditioning in hot weather, or light in the darkness) A: Sure there are. A number of modern buildings (in the U.S. anyway) use
